Ramblings In Japan

by T. Geo. Wood.

You could hear the Cambo playing,
On Tokyo Bay,
The Tachiban was sailing
So far away.
All the engines now were throbbing
Anchors aweigh
As we travelled for pearl oysters
Down Tokyo Bay.
(To the tune of Moonlight Bay)

This is the story of a Special Service trip to Katsuyama and to Pearl Island, which might be called the Coney Island of Tokyo.

Special Services are part of the program for entertainment of U.S. soldiers, airmen and seamen and their dependents. This organization not only runs Hotels and Rest Centers but organizes excursions and trips to many points of interest, even to Manila and Honk Kong, Bangkok and Saigon for men on leave.

You can go to Hong Kong and return by air, all expenses paid for around $200.00 which is a very popular trip.

We were more modest and took the children on this one day trip down Tokyo Bay.

The day started at 5:30 as we had to reach Tokyo Army hospital across town in time to leave at 7:00 a.m. There is a delightful air of bustle, cleanup and dressup about a family excursion early in the morning, as all are scrubbed, dressed and wait for that inevitable late one, who finally arrives, then off we go.

In Tokyo, the streets do not wake to life early in the morning — and those centers which until three a.m. flash with lights and activity, are now boarded up and quiet. We really mean boarded up! The Banks and large buildings are equipped with steel shutters which close tightly. The smaller places put up boards or bamboo fences without a crack.

There is no such thing as night window shopping. Norma and I made a trip to the famous Ginza one evening about 10 p.m., and for three blocks, could not find a single lighted window.

So, we travelled quickly over quiet streets to the rendezvous, only to find that an extra bus was required. We waited about half an hour, then were bussed to the ship dock.

Busses are the universal transportation of the country. The people are bus conscious. One of our friends said yesterday, she thought, "Every Japanese child and every adult had seen every sight in Japan three or four times at least."

The schools seem to offer these trips by the hundreds. They commence with the Grade I children of four years. In most schools, each student wears the same uniform. Blue smocks signify the Kindergartens and each class is marshalled by teachers and parents. As you get close you see that each child has his or her name and address sewn on the smock. They move in unison, like swarms, never breaking lines.

The older boys wear black uniforms with brass buttons and identical flat caps; the girls middy costumes with white waists and blue skirts and so on clear past the university grades, you see the uniform on everyone.

Consequently, every public place of interest appears swarming with identical crowds every and any day that you visit it.

The older people travel just as much, and a train trip followed by a bus ride, with their box lunches and sake is a real holiday for them. It generally includes several shrine or temple visits.

The Tachiban, our ship, sailed at 8 a.m. It was a diesel powered boat, flying the bright signal flags of an excursion.

We were bound for the outer edge of Tokyo Bay, about a 50-mile trip. Rather a misty morning, but calm. We passed miles of docks to our right as we moved southward.

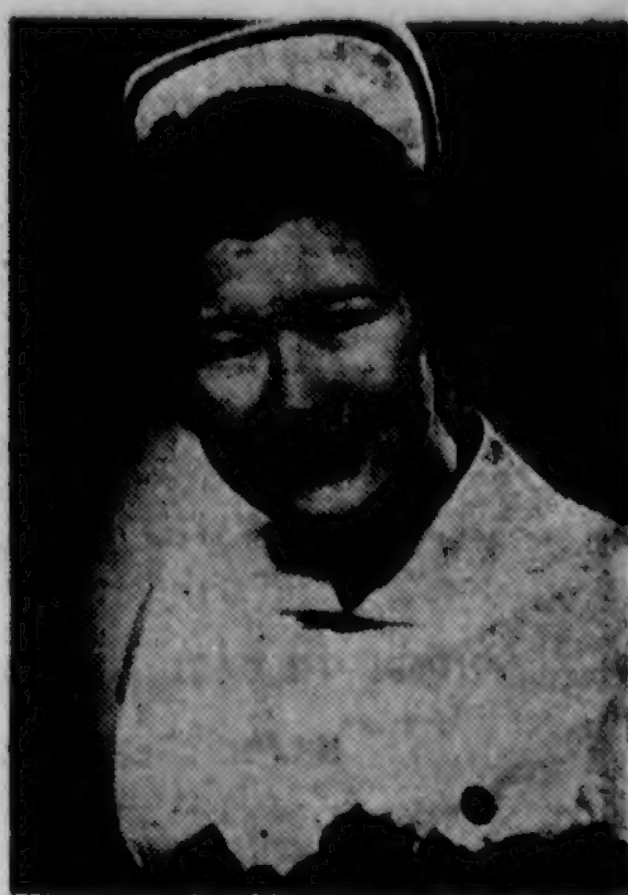

There was an occasional island, some of which were once forts. They now seemed only masses of wrecked concrete, the reminders of war bombing.

The excursion party settled down on the decks or in the ferry-style main cabin seats. We were entertained.

Timely Topics

— by S. Waters

It certainly seems to take a long time for August to roll around.

Perhaps it only seems so long because such a nice thing is due to happen along about August. If everything goes as planned, August is when the hard surface will be laid on our Main Street. Won't that be a change? It might even be worth what we are all going through now.

Speaking of hard surface, the top layer is starting to go on the Welling-Craddock road. They already had the Welling Y Junction done Thursday, and were starting up this way.

Bobby Heggie says his outfit is going to have the road in pretty good shape for the big parade on July 1st. It's liable to be dusty, but what would Stampede Day be without a lot of dust?

There should be a good crowd at the Stampede again this year, and no wonder! The best of the cowboys are attracted to this little show, which offers just about the best prize money — day for day and ride for ride — in the entire U.S. or Canada. There are places that offer more, but they are a long way from here!

I wonder how many voters are going to spoil their ballot next week? In this election, the old, familiar 'X' IS NO GOOD AT ALL!

Mark your first choice with the number "1" and either mark the other name with "2" or leave it blank. There is plenty of room left on the ballot for you to write a number to mark your choice. Don't write over the name or on the black separating strips, or you may spoil your ballot.

Say! The Gas Company is a lot closer to being finished than most of us realize. First thing we know, we will be caught in the rush and no gasfitter to be had. I wonder if it is going to be COLD next winter?

The merchants have had quite a lot to say lately. Watch for a reply next week in this same column.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Still announce the engagement of their daughter, Norma Jean, to Mr. Jack Roth, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Roth of Cold Lake, Alberta. The marriage is to take place July 22nd in the Stake House, Raymond.

BORN to Mr. and Mrs. David Brandley, June 21st, a boy.

The town of Raymond is proud of the eight home-town girls who graduated June 15 in a ceremony in the Southminster United Church, Lethbridge. Of the 23 nurses honored at this presentation, eight were from Raymond. LaVere and LaVon, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Robinson; Jean and Joan, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Holmes; Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Stone; Dawn, daughter of T. T. Mendenhall; Arlene, daughter of Mrs. Martha Taylor; and Kay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. Yamazaki are the Raymond graduates.

Dean Holroyd was Chairman of the Ceremonies in Lethbridge, which Bishop J. G. Snow opened with prayer. Mrs. D. G. W. Sutherland gave the greetings from the board of Management of the Old Galt Hospital, and greetings from the Municipal Hospital Board were offered by A. G. Virtue, QC. Miss C. Tennant, RN, addressed the graduating class, after which Pamela Russell rendered a piano solo. Civic greetings were extended by Mayor A. W. Shackelford, and Miss A. Fallis led the 23 girls in the Florence Nightingale Pledge. Lucille Wilde sang a solo after which Dr. F. M. Johnson presented the diplomas and Dr. E. R. Poulson gave an address to the graduating class. Four special awards were made. The J. H. Westbrook medal for general proficiency was awarded to Fay Duell of New Dayton; the Galt School of Nursing Alumni Scholarship for Proficiency in Surgery was given to Constance Maier of Taber; Margaret Stone of Raymond won the Emily Hick Award for Proficiency in Pediatrics; and the Canadian Nurse Award to 'New graduate who showed most promise of professional development during her period of training' was given to LaVere Robinson of Raymond.

The Valedictory address was given by Arlene Taylor of Raymond. "God Save the Queen" was sung, with A. K. Putland at the organ, and the program came to a close.

All Have Plans

All the Raymond graduates have plans for the immediate future and some of them are very ambitious.

The Robinson twins and Kay Yamazaki will remain in Lethbridge until Christmas and further plans are made. The Holmes twins will work in Lethbridge until Christmas when they may leave for Hawaii. Arlene Taylor will probably go to Venezuela, and Dawn Mendenhall will work in Raymond. Margaret Stone is vacationing here until the month of September when she plans to marry Vede Gilchrist.

Jack Evans Airs Own Views

"It took a lot of talking to get me to say yes to seeking and accepting a nomination," Jack Evans, the Liberal candidate in the Warner constituency said, last night, "but after I had investigated he reasons behind this snap election that was called by Mr. Manning and his Social Credit government, I felt that it was my duty as a thinking citizen to do all that I could in every way to see that the people of this area were represented by someone who would do all that he could to be a conscience and a voice for good government for the folks at home."

Mr. Evans, 'Jack' to everyone that knows him, said that he has been extremely busy meeting people all over the constituency from Lethbridge clear down to the St. Kilda area east of Coultis. Meetings have been held in the different towns and community halls and schools, with good attendance, and fine response. "The people whom I have met and talked about this election with are very interested, and alarmed over the condition of the Social Credit administration as it was before the government was dissolved at the request of the Premier, Mr. Manning. When the opposition members of the House under the leadership of Mr. Prowse began to question the actions of some of the Social Credit members, instead of answering the questions they let Mr. Manning do the answering, what little was done, until he thought it safer to go to the people instead of attempting any more answers. The people of Warner constituency aren't fooled a bit by such evasive actions. I don't think that they are in the class the late Mr. Aberhart put them in when he said, 'The average mentality of the voters of Alberta is about that of a twelve year old.' I think that the mentality of the voters here, is high enough to know that the issue of this election is not one of a minority group persecuting and pressuring a large group into an action they did not wish to take, as has been claimed by many of the Social Crediters. I think that the people are smarter than they have been given credit for. They certainly seem to be smart enough to recognize that somebody is running to hide something."

"In the past," Jack went on to say, "the voters of this part of the province have felt that maybe they didn't have any alternative to Social Credit strong enough to justify taking action as they might have wanted to."

Freezing

by Consumer Section
 Marketing Service
 Canada Department of Agriculture

Freezing is a quick, convenient and easy way of preserving foods. We cannot say it is new because our grandmothers used to freeze meat and pies and bread in their back kitchens or porches and for years the people of the north have used the great outdoors as their home freezer. It is much better today, however, because we do not have to wait until winter to freeze foods and there is no worry about the effects of a spring thaw either. With the use of modern locker plants and home freezers the summer-fresh flavor of frozen fruits and vegetables is retained from one season until the next. Even grandmother will agree that this is a much better arrangement than she had in her old days.

Since so many families now have a home freezer or locker the home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture have sent along a few suggestions that may help you in planning your freezing programme.

What to freeze must be decided on the basis of the family's needs and desires, and on the space available for storing. Short-season foods like strawberries and peas are a good choice for year around use from the freezer and locker. It is a good idea to make up a tentative plan showing the approximate number of packages of each fruit and vegetable your family will consume in the year ahead. At the beginning of each season do not be tempted to freeze too much of any one food and then later on discover there is not enough space left for all the others you want to freeze.

Frozen fruits and vegetables with their fresh colour and flavour sealed right in them are almost as much of a treat on wintery days as the fresh products are now.

Those vegetables which are usually eaten raw, such as celery, tomatoes, lettuce, cucumbers and radishes do not freeze satisfactorily. Whole kernel corn is generally better to freeze than corn on the cob as the latter sometimes develops off-flavours during storage. Most root vegetables and cabbage may be frozen but they keep well without freezing so why give them valuable space in the freezer?

Most of our Canadian fruits may be successfully frozen and some of them like currants, cranberries, gooseberries, blueberries and rhubarb — may be frozen without sugar. Other fruits are best frozen with sugar, either dry or in a syrup. Apricots and peaches require special treatment such as the addition of ascorbic acid to prevent discoloration. Pears do not freeze well because the texture changes during freezing and they are soft and mushy when thawed.

Perhaps you have wondered why vegetables have to be blanched before freezing. The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture tell us that all fresh vegetables and fruits contain chemical substances called enzymes which, if left uncontrolled, will cause unfavourable changes in the flavour, colour and texture of the product even if it is frozen. To kill the enzymes in vegetables we blanch them and this preserves their fresh characteristics. To retard the action of enzymes in fruits generally add sugar.

A good point to remember is that the frozen foods that are taken out of the locker or freezer will be no better than the fresh foods that went into it. So it is important to use only the highest quality fruits and vegetables for freezing and to freeze them as soon as possible after they are picked.

FREEZING STRAWBERRIES

Nearly everybody likes strawberries, and right now we can enjoy them in all sorts of wonderful desserts and salads. But — and probably because the strawberry season is short — no one ever seems to be able to get enough of them. This year, so that you may go on enjoying their special goodness until next strawberry season, why not freeze some and put them away in your home freezer or locker?

The berries, after being washed and hulled and either sliced or left whole, may be covered with dry sugar in a bowl, using two cups of sugar to 12 cups of berries. Before packing in freezer cartons the berries should be stirred very slightly to distribute the sugar evenly. This will partially dissolve the sugar and give the frozen strawberries a better flavor. Or the berries may be packed into freezer cartons and covered with a cold medium syrup made from one cup of sugar dissolved in one cup of water. Two-thirds of a cup of syrup will be required for each pint carton. Strawberries frozen without sugar or syrup lose their flavor and color so this is not recommended by the Consumer Section.

Can Lose By Voting

The United States Consulate in Calgary pointed out this week that United States citizenship is lost to persons who vote in a political election in a foreign state. This of course would apply to provincial, municipal and federal elections in Canada. The Consulate noted that there are many United States citizens in this area eligible to vote because they also possess Canadian citizenship, that is, they are dual nationals. Should such persons wish to retain their United States citizenship, they should consider the implications of a vote in the forthcoming provincial elections.

To Our Friends and Customers

Dear Customer:

The year 1955 marks the 10th Anniversary of The Broadway Store. Through these years we have appreciated your patronage. We do enjoy serving you. It is our desire that each face we serve may be a friend as well as a customer, that friendship may always be paramount in our business relationships, for it is here that our life is lived as well as our living earned.

Just as the horse and buggy have disappeared from our streets so must we in our business plan and change if we are to look to a future of progress.

After due consideration, we have decided to adopt a Cash Policy in line with the modern trend everywhere. (More than 7,000 merchants in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba have taken this step in the last 18 months.) By operating on cash we will be in a position to give our customers the best possible service at the lowest possible price, consistent with good merchandising.

Effective July 1st, The Broadway Store will be on a strictly CASH BASIS. We are confident that this new policy will be a definite advantage to you.

Special arrangements for financing may be made on larger purchases.

May we take this opportunity to thank you for your support in the past, and to express the hope that we may long be favored with your patronage under this new plan.

Very truly yours,

The BROADWAY Store

tained by a Japanese combo band, two men and a girl, all costumed, painted and dolled up. One man blew a trumpet, the other hand drums and cymbals and the girl had a big drum. At first it was enjoyable, but these folks had great endurance and little music.

The constant bang bang toot drove us out of doors to enjoy the sea air and the boats which passed continually.

Soon we came even with Yokohama the big sea port, and the traffic increased.

Brunch was included — sandwiches, apples, coffee or coolade. The coolade was grape flavored and helped down the sandwiches.

It was nearly noon, a four-hour trip, when the boat docked at Katsuyama. Soon we were hiking along the beach sands to the entertainment center. It all appeared to be operated by the Steamship Company. There was an aquarium — turtles, fish and sea snakes. This was located in a cliff cave. They had a diving girl, who entered the tank, where she could be seen, with her goggles and knife, driving small fish and gathering shells for the spectators. Little stall-keepers sold shells, postcards, fish, etc.

Now, we headed along a beach trail for Pearl Island. This was a small resort island facing the bay. The party, about fifty, faced the rocks and water on a platform built over the cliffs, after passing the trays of drying fish, nets and boats.

Below us, the placid waters of the bay were dotted with circular pens, about 50 feet across, staked flush with the water level. In these pens are baskets, sunk in the water and in the baskets, the pearl oysters.

Diesel boats were working in and around the pens: men adjusting stakes, pulling nets and clearing the weeds.

An interesting sight was a lone fisherman in a small sampan. He had a coil of baited hooks, about a half-mile long, with the bait every six feet. His technique was perfect. With a rear scull, he moved the boat forward about ten feet, and with the other hand flung out the baited hooks. This took about half an hour. Then he sculled back to his starting point and started to lift his fish. They were small, about six or eight inches long and almost two-thirds of his hooks had caught their fish.

Next came the real show — Two girls, dressed in white, tight fitting swim suits came out with goggles, knives, and small wooden tubs with coils of rope.

They swam out to the edge of the rocks, dived cleanly from the surface — came back up the rope, with a clump of pearl oysters, dropped them in the tub, rested a while, and repeated. A real exhibition of diving, but leaving the suspicion that the whole thing was rigged up for the tourist parties. Indeed, it must be so. No oysters could survive the continual harvesting which takes place in one given spot, just in front of the stand.

For 200 yen you could pick out your own oyster, see it opened, and have your pearl. The gamble was fascinating to the women, just as good to watch as Bingo.

Again I think there was some rigging done, as there was little or no disappointment. There was no fake, as far as oysters were concerned. They were pried open, and explored by the Amas and men, who opened them and produced the gems, discarding the dead oyster. Norma and Rosemary got 8 or 10 pearls.

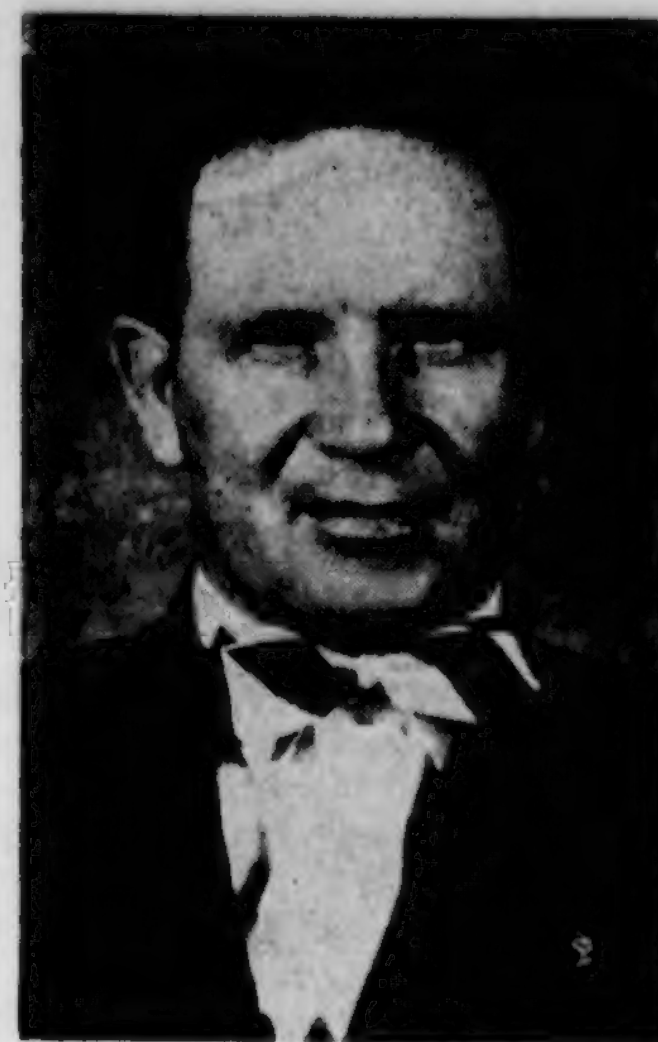

Pearl oysters have a smooth, nearly black shell with a fringed lip, inside the shell is pearly and dark. The pearls are cultured by inserting a small fragment of pearl powder with a microscopic needle. The oyster, for the next three years or more, coats the offending grain with layer upon layer of pearl substance, until the time for collecting it arrives. The size and quality is uncertain, but occasionally, even under these conditions, a real beauty is found. The common run, as you will understand, is very cheap.

Two hundred yen is about 55 cents. When they had only ten shells left, one woman of the party bought the lot for 1200 yen and got 13 pearls — some gamble, which everyone enjoyed with ph's and ah's as each shell was opened.

So about three o'clock we returned was served like the breakfast — on to the Tachiban and the box luncheon ly more so — more sandwiches, cold fried chicken and the drinks. Oh yes, cookies additional. The Combo started again, and we spent the homeward trip on the decks, watching the usual ship romances develop, and listening to varied tales of the East.

Back to Tokyo — about 7 p.m. home and happy, after a splendid 12-hour excursion for about 100 people.

If you want cheap pearls come to Japan. The market is sick and over-produced, but will probably be put under control soon.

The minister of Agriculture for the Province of Alberta said:

"Dollar for dollar the people of Alberta have received good value for their money."
(Cardston Social Credit Nominating Convention)

IS THIS GOOD VALUE?

Was it good value when middlemen made some $137,000 excess profits on three real estate deals with the Social Credit government of Alberta?

Was it good value when government buildings were sold at a loss — to be acquired by two MLA's and rented back to the government?

Was it good value to call a $400,000 election, because the opposition asked a "trivial" question concerning MLA's doing business with the government, of which the Minister of Agriculture, in his nominating meeting at Warner said:

"The legality of the Legislative Assembly Act covering members sitting in the House and doing business with the government, no matter how trivial it may be, will have to be dealt with by the courts."

The Minister of Agriculture for the Province of Alberta said:

Social Credit MLA's have not done anything dishonest or dishonorable or taken anything which was not due them legally."

(Quoted from the Lethbridge Herald report of Social Credit Nominating Convention in Warner)

IS THIS HONEST?

IS IT HONEST?

For those elected by the people to administer public business to profit personally from that public business, contrary to law? For example, Mr. Landeryou and Mr. Lee.

Is it honorable to condone such actions?

Hospital Auxiliary
Notes

The Ladies Hospital Auxiliary had its regular monthly meeting June 15. Mrs. Velve Cooper presided and Mrs. Ollie Turner conducted the meeting. Regular business was carried on and then Mrs. V. Cooper and Mrs. Anne Turner gave a report on the Provincial convention. Both members thanked the group for being allowed the privilege of being delegates to this function.

The reports were most interesting and enlightening to the ladies present. One item in particular stressed that most small towns need to be awakened to the idea that a Hospital Auxiliary is a community project and that all womens organizations should be represented on this body.

A committee was formed to chose and decorate a float for the Dominion Day Parade.

A motion was made that this year we have a Jubilee party to commemorate the years the many women have worked at this project.

Next meeting will be held in the local hospital August 17. We would welcome any new members that would like to join with us.

Mr and Mrs. I. B. Roberts returned last Friday from a visit with children grandchildren, and great-grandchildren in Moses Lake, Wash., Blackfoot and Driggs, Idaho and Great Falls, Montana. While on their tour they also visited with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Blackburn, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cameron and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Newman in points in Idaho. A very pleasant trip is reported.

This time though, it is greatly different. The feeling all over the province, according to reports which I have heard, is that people know that this time a vote for fellows such as myself, who have had their public conscience shaken up, isn't going to be a wasted vote. Right here in this constituency, I have had many of the older people tell me that the talk is going my way more strongly than they have ever heard it before, and that the way things look now, the possibility of having something besides Social Credit representing us is better than at any time since 1940, when the late 'Jim' Walker was elected."

"We are in an agricultural area here in this constituency, and the last representative we sent to Edmonton was the Minister of Agriculture for the province. That should be his first thought in regards to what could and should be done for the majority of us who are farmers. Yet, if you will look at the pamphlet that was sent out from him, you'll notice that, although he mentions municipal affairs, health and road grants, and many other things like that, he has neglected to even bring up the subject of agriculture. Not as a nominee in this election, but as a farmer, I am disappointed to be forgotten by the minister in charge of my vocation in the government, and I know from visiting with them that a lot of other farmers feel the same way. If other business is more important than agriculture, to the Minister of Agriculture, representing an agricultural area, then it's time we got somebody who isn't too busy to be concerned with us."

"I hope that on June 29th, the people will support me (naturally), and at a '1' after my name when they vote. But I do honestly hope, that regardless of how they wish to vote, that they will come out and exercise their franchise by voting in this election." Mr. Evans concluded by extending an invitation to everyone to attend a public meeting in the Raymond Town Hall this Saturday, June 25th.

These Are The Facts

The people of this province have a right to know where their money is being spent and what they are getting for their tax dollar.

Your Social Credit government has been ever ready to supply this information at all times to any one interested. We would like at this time to give you a few facts concerning these matters. Let's take a look at the record.

In 1935 the Social Credit government was swept into power at a time when we were in the midst of a depression that affected everyone in the province. We were badly in debt and as a result it took 51 cents out of every dollar just to pay the interest on our provincial debt. Your government pledged itself to rid this province of our heavy yoke of debt.

By 1945, before oil was discovered to any great extent, it took only 14% of the revenue to cover both the principal and the interest. In 1955 it will require only 2.11% of our revenue for these payments.

The Liberal party was in office from 1905 to 1921 and left a debt of $100,000,000. The U.F.A. government left an additional debt of $67,000,000. In all, a total of $167,000,000. In two years following the election of a Social Credit government, the debt was reduced by $2,000,000 and we were still in the depression.

By 1946, a full year before substantial oil revenues became available, the debt was reduced by $21,000,000. How was this done? Not by being extravagant and wasteful as charged by the Liberal party but by good sound business administration.

Our debt today is $91,185,211. The interest on this is 2.82% the lowest in Canada. Our assets at present amount to $226,514,521. This means our debt can be paid and a substantial amount left over for the use of our people.

Where has our money gone to and how is it spent? We have paid of $76,000,000 with interest on our provincial debt, we have made loans to cities, towns and villages to the sum of $21,994,278. We have made loans available to municipalities for capital expenditures for a total of $64,333,835, 107 of our 141 towns and villages have sewer and water. Milk River received $100,000 and Warner $75,000 for that purpose at 2%. In other provinces they have to pay 4 1/2% to 5%. This reduction in interest rate saves our people $2,000,000 each year.

This is only a small part of our record of achievement; compare it with the empty promises of the Liberal party who were voted out of this province 34 years ago. Their promises fooled very few in Saskatchewan in 1944 and in B.C. in 1932 and 1953. They were voted out of these two provinces for their wasteful and inefficient administration.

You have given Social Credit a good majority in past elections, we are confident you will want to make it greater this time. Vote Social Credit on June 29th.
